

Handling of Personal Information

We may collect from our customers their personal information (including sensitive personal data or information) such as documents of proof of identity and address, contact details, bank account details, and investor profile and process and store them towards:

- evaluating their investment applications;
- meeting the requirements under law as regards customer identification process; and
- maintenance, preservation and reporting of customer account information as stipulated under law.

Such security practices and procedures as stipulated under law will be applied on such personal information. We will not without the prior consent of our customers disclose their personal information to any third party unless such disclosure has been contractually permitted, or where the disclosure is necessary for compliance with law. Personal information will only be shared with such third parties who are under obligation to maintain the security and privacy of personal information.
